Message from Lay Director

If one was to ask what has become my Ideal in life since my Cursillo, I wonder how each of us would answer. I recently read that to fall beneath one's ideal is to lose one's share of life. An ideal is something to hope for and to hold on to and in the absence of an ideal, hope has nothing to look forward to. There are many kinds of ideals in life: principles, virtues, objects of devotion but the greatest and highest of all ideals is the God-ideal. It is this, which gives us the light of life and gives one interest in life. This is the ideal that Cursillo has led us to. DeColores, Rick
